

BRINKERT IS QUESTIONED BY STATE POLICE

Today

AN AMERICAN WON.
CONGRESS MAY MOVE.
OATS SEVEN CENTS.
WHY MAKE MILLIONS?

By Arthur Brisbane
(Copyright 1932 By King Features

A YOUNG AMERICAN, Gene Sarazen, won the Open British Golf tournament yesterday. "Shattering par" in every round except the last.
Think of playing 18 holes, four times, in 70-69-70-74.

Gene Sarazen's father and mother are Italians. He belongs to a race that has contributed much to this country, beginning with Christopher Columbus, who discovered it.

In his victory over all comers,
Sarazen even broke the record made by the incomparable and immortal Bobby Jones when he won the open tournament.

CONGRESS, in its talking, planning, voting, taxing and appropriating, worries big business, and big business has been saying earnestly to Congress:
"Want you please go home?"
And Congress has been saying:
"No, I won't."

But the veterans are in Washington, disturbing Congress as much as Congress was disturbing the financial big wigs. And now you hear that Congress will bring down gavel for the last time this session at the end of next week, and go away, not to give him finance the respite that it wants, but to escape the veterans.

OATS on the farm in Iowa are selling at seven to eight cents a bushel, many acres will not be harvested, the price not paying for the labor.

For use on a horse breeding farm in New Jersey, this writer is paying 40 cents a bushel for oats, in carload lots, F. O. B., Farmingdale, N.
J.

And this writer-farmer is selling first quality alfalfa hay, baled, or the Mojave desert in California for $10 a ton, or two pounds for a cent.

Under irrigation it takes 500 pounds of water to grow one pound of alfalfa, which means you must pump a thousand pounds of water,
cut and bale two pounds of hay,
all for one cent.

No profit in that. Farming is complicated, and farmers may soon be saying, "move over," to the veterans gathered in Washington.

EUROPEANS wonder why Americans "work so hard merely to get money." Some Americans make money, as Indians made bows and arrows, with a plan of usefulness.

W. H. Donner, retired steel maker, gives two million dollars to study and fight cancer. Everybody, Europeans included, will have the benefit of the discoveries made through the fund established to help sci-

Men worth while like power,
although some of them use it foolishly.

Money is power. Some use that foolishly, but more and more are using it nobly, for the public welfare.

COMPARATIVE prosperity commits suicide while poverty hangs on and hopes. In yesterday's news a number of men, successful until the crash came, ended their lives
because they had lost so much.

One poisoned himself, and told his wife never to speculate in stock with the money he left her. Another

WET-DRY ISSUE
OBSCURES ALL
AT G. O. P. MEET

Dust of Prohibition Rumpus Settles On Convention City

BOTH SIDES PLAN
DEMONSTRATIONS

Degree of Wetness Is Primary Question In Delegates' Minds

By W. R. RAGSDALE
Associated Press Staff Writer
CHICAGO, June 11.—The dust of the prohibition rumpus continued to settle down upon the convention city today, obscuring virtually all else.

In the face of the march upon the Republican national convention of the organized wets demanding repeal and of dries who oppose it,
the questions of who will be the next chairman of the national committee and whether there will be any definite move to replace Vice President Curtis as a running mate for President Hoover were relegated to the side lines.

How Wet Will It Be?
In the minds of arriving delegates who discussed the prohibition plank the Republicans will adopt next week, the primary interest seemed to be the degree of wetness.

The organized wets and dries carried their dispute from the statement stage into a series of demonstrations, with the former laying plans for a two-day demonstration to begin tomorrow and the latter beginning a series of meetings, described by F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League as "a call to arms."

The wet demonstration was arranged under the auspices of the Crusaders and the Republican Citizens' committee against prohibition.

Anti-Saloon Rally
The dry rally was opened under the auspices of the Anti-Saloon League.

A statement came today from Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith, vice president of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union, saying the "drive to repeal or modify the Eighteenth amendment," is the pathway to "putrid politics."

Curran said "there is an open revolt against prohibition throughout the country and it is the most amazing study in national psychology seen in years. The tide is running our way."

300 8TH GRADE
PUPILS HONORED

Diplomas Awarded at Lisbon; Hold Declaiming Contest

LISBON, June 11.—More than 600 children, their parents and friends attended the annual eighth grade reading and declaiming contest, the judges being E. L. Kerr, superintendent of schools, Salem; F. R.
Booth, superintendent of schools,
Leetonia, and Charles A. White, principal of the Lincoln school here.

First place in the fifth-sixth de-claming contest was won by Dorothy Mundy, Hanover, her subject being, "Polly's Surprise Party";
second place, Wanda Zimmermann, Coffee school, Butler township;
third place, Bruce Davis, Bunker Hill school, West township, "Hiram Blowin' In."

In the seventh-eighth grade contest, first place was awarded Sherman Brantingham, Winona school,
Butler township, "Tony Pleads Guilty to Petty Larceny"; second place, Zoia Slutz, Coffee school, Butler township, "Earning Missionary Money"; third place, Arlene Hartman, Bunker Hill school, West township, "The Last Day of School."

Gold, silver and bronze medals were awarded winners in each grade contest by County Supt. H. C.
Leonard.

Republican Notables on Ground for Convention

As the opening of the Republican national convention at Chicago draws near, the Windy City is the mecca of politicians from all over the United States. Above are some of the dignitaries of the Grand Old Party who have arrived on the scene bright and early. At left is Mabel Walker Willebrandt, committeewoman at large from California; top center, Charles D. Hilles (left), of New York, member of the executive committee and James F. Burke, general counsel for the national committee; lower center, Robert D. Lucas of Kentucky, executive director of the national committee, and at right Ernest Lee Jahncke, Assistant Secretary of the Navy and committeeman from Louisiana.

FAIRFIELD TWP.
IN OPPOSITION TO ANNEXATION

Variation in Taxing Rates
Basis of Protests;
Hearing Called

LISBON, June 11.—Opposition has developed in Fairfield township to the withdrawal of certain territory and annexing it to Leetonia. A public hearing on this proposal, advanced by the Village of Leetonia, will be held by the county commissioners in special session here next Tuesday.

Council Approves
An ordinance authorizing the an-nexing of territory has been approved by the Leetonia council.

It has been pointed out that the present tax levy for Leetonia corporation is 21.30, and that for Fairfield township 18.70. The opposition to the annexation movement declares that property owners now paying the Fairfield township rate will hereafter pay the Leetonia corporation rate, which, under the present classification is an increase of 2.14, meaning that real estate owners in the proposed annexation territory will have to pay approximately $5,000 more taxes annually.

Township Protests
The Fairfield township board of education and also the Fairfield township trustees have also pointed out they will suffer a financial loss should the commissioners approve the annexation petition of Leetonia.

The Leetonia sponsors of the annexation movement declare that in the event the petition is approved, that the tax rate will be lowered on account of an increased valuation being listed within the corporate limits.

Talks and Music
On Goshen Program

L. W. Sanders led a discussion on
"Do Our Homes Contribute What They Should to Our Communities?"
at a meeting of Goshen grange Friday evening at the hall, north of Salem.

Talks were given by C. D. Carr on
"What I Consider an Ideal Harvest Dinner" and by H. A. Shinn on "What I Consider an Ideal December Dinner." A vocal selection was contributed by Sarah Starbuck, Lois Ingram and Doris Maxine Miller, and Laura Belle Hull of the juvenile grange had charge of a flower conundrum.

Goshen grange officers held a conference last Tuesday evening at the home of William Fogg and a report of the conference was given at this meeting.

An invitation was received from Ellsworth grange to a basket picnic on July 4, near Ellsworth.

Mrs. E. E. Bonsall was elected grange pianist, to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs.
Miller.

Three candidates were obligated in the first and second degrees.

Mahoning Outing
At Lake Placentia

The second annual Mahoning Country Farm bureau and 4-H club picnic is scheduled for Saturday,
June 25, at Lake Placentia, near North Georgetown.

Columbiana, Stark, Portage and Mahoning County Farm bureau baseball teams will contend for district honors. There will be other recreational features. A basket dinner will be served at noon.

AUCTION SALE OF R. E.
GROVE ELECTRIC APPLIANCES
CONTINUES ALL NEXT WEEK.
SALES AT 2:00 AND 7:30 P. M.

Curtain to Drop
Tonight on 2-Day
Bargain Program

The curtain goes down tonight on Salem Days, a two-day merchandising program, probably unequaled in the history of the city, bringing as it did, outstanding values even at a time when prices are at their lowest levels in years.

The 100 Salem merchants cooperating in the sales event were expecting the largest throngs of the two-day program
this afternoon and tonight.
Unusually large crowds were reported all day yesterday. The stores will be open tonight until the usual hour.

Sales forces in most of the stores will be increased so that shoppers will be accommodated quickly.

ARREST TWO ON ROBBERY COUNT

Authorities Get Canton Pair On Butler Township Charges

LISBON, June 11.—William
Brownson and Rose Miller
Brownson, giving their address as Canton, are in the county jail in default of $1,000 bond, each charged with breaking and entering the home of C. E. Wolf, Butler township, the night of June 3.

The duet did a "second story"
job, according to Constable Emery Donahay of Butler township, as the home was entered from the roof of a porch. Bedding, clothing, tableware, canned fruit, land and hams were taken, all of which were recovered by Donahay from a camp the couple maintained not distant from the Wolf country home.

Brownson entered a plea of guilty when arraigned before Justice of the Peace Harry Weikart, Butler township, while his companion entered a plea of not guilty.

Share In Estate

CHICAGO, June 11.—One half of the income from an estate estimated at $500,000 was bequeathed
the widow of Thomas M. Boyd, chairman of the Board of the American Seating Company of Hamilton, O., by terms of a will proposed here. He died June 11.

The remainder of the estate goes to a daughter, Mrs. John McCloskey of New York City.

Stranded Veterans Divide;
2 Go On, 2 Return Home

John W. Cage and C. J. Baker, Detroit, Mich., who were to have been grand marshal and assistant marshal, respectively, of Michigan
"bonus marchers" at Washington, D. C., left for the nation's capital this morning following settlement of a civil damage action filed against a member of their party as the outcome of an automobile accident last Thursday.

Two Will Return Home
Two other veterans, Michael J.
Garstecki and John L. Helminiak, both of Detroit, are still in Salem but are planning to return to their home to arrange for financing of repairs to their own automobile.

Cage started for Washington early this morning, planning to "hit hike" his way to the capitol.

Baker obtained transportation to Pittsburgh, Pa., from where he will also "thumb it" to Washington.

The quartet has been stranded in this city since last Tuesday when their car collided with a machine driven by Arliss Glass of Columbiana. A damage action filed against them following the crash was settled out of court for $45 obtained by the veterans in voluntary donations made here.

Aid Veterans

L. O. O. Moose and individuals aided the vets.

During the men's stay in Salem
they were provided food and rooms by Christ Nkatas, proprietor of the Coney Island luncheon, 599 East
State st.

The vets expressed their appreciation of the assistance offered them
by Mayor John M. Davidson, the Salem Business Bureau and the other organizations.

VILLAGE TAKES
STEPS TO MEET
WELFARE NEEDS

Washingtonville plans Organization of Red Cross Unit

COMMITTEE NAMED
BY MAYOR THORPE

Mercy Chapter To Be Allied With Salem Group

WASHINGTONVILLE, June 11.—
Preliminary plans for the organization of a Red Cross chapter were arranged by village officials who Friday met with a group of citizens at the Methodist church to arrange a program for relief.

Word is awaited, Mayor John G.
Thorpe, in charge of the meeting,
reported, from county Red Cross officials before final action on the organization of the relief unit here can be taken.

Names Committee
Mayor Thorpe appointed a committee of five men, Ivan Davis, John King, Edward Longbottom, Carl Weikart and Glenn McNeelan to take charge of the project.

Weikart and McNeelan were named to represent Mahoning county residents of the village,
while the three other committeemen will act in behalf of Columbiana countians.

Thorpe explained the need of the formulation of a central welfare unit to supervise relief work among indigent families. The Red Cross unit is planned as an auxiliary chapter to the Salem Red Cross chapter, it was said.

Await County Report
The plan has been taken up with officials of the Salem unit, Thorpe said, while the matter has also been placed before county Red Cross officials from whom no report has,
as yet, been received. The matter will be referred to executives of the national chapter in Washington, D. C.

The meeting was called by Thorpe in anticipation of the need for an organized welfare unit to cope with problems to be faced by the village in rendering aid to needy families during the coming months.

Ex-Convict Denies
He Spent Evening
With Morrow Maid

Tells Story and Police Drive Rapidly Away
For Unannounced Destination; Lindy
Near As Girl Takes Poison

(By Associated Press)

ALPINE, N. J., June 11.—Ernest Brinkert, ex-convict arrested in the Lindbergh case, told his story to state police today, and immediately thereafter officers drove rapidly away for an unannounced destination.

Arrested in New Rochelle, N. Y., last night after the suicide of Violet Sharpe, waitress in the Englewood, N. J. home of Mrs. Dwight W.
Morrow, grandmother of the murdered Lindbergh baby, Brinkert came here voluntarily early today, without waiting for extradition.

He flatly denied an ante-mortem statement by Miss Sharpe that she had spent the evening of March 1, the night the baby was stolen, with him.

On the contrary, he insisted, he and his wife spent both that night and the night following at "a very nice home" owned by a Negro in Bridgeport, Conn.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, June 11.—The light of law that since March 1, has swept in groping circles, for the Lindbergh baby kidnaper-killer, burned inquisitively and in sharp focus today upon an ex-convict, Ernest Brinkert.

The sudden suicide yesterday of an English servant girl in the home at Englewood, N. J., of Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow (the baby's grandmother), and the arrest several hours later in New Rochelle, N. Y., of the "Ernie" with whom she said she was meeting the night the baby was kidnaped, gave the investigation into the crime new impetus.

The girl, a waitress at the Morrow home for more than two years, was Violet Sharpe, 28. She was English-born, as was Betty Gow, the slain baby's nursemaid who was among the first questioned after the kidnaping.

Believes in Maid

Despite the suicide of her maid, Violet Sharp, Mrs. D. W. Morrow today again expressed her belief that the dead girl had nothing to do with the Lindbergh tragedy.

Memorial Service
Is Held By Grange

Salem grange held a Memorial service for its two members who died during the last year at a meeting Friday evening at the hall.
Depot rd. The departed members were G. C. Greenisen and Fletcher Glass.

Ellis Satterthwaite gave the address and two songs, "Abide With Me" and "Nearer My God to Thee" were sung by a quartet composed of Mr. and Mrs. Price, Mrs. Willis McArthur and F. L. Vincent. Mrs.
James Thomas gave a reading,
"Crossing the Bar." The chaplain gave the benediction.

Children's night will be observed at a meeting in two weeks when the children will give the program.

County Group At
Wooster Program

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. French and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dewese, Salem, attended the Columbiana county day activities Friday at the Ohio Experiment station, Wooster.

Approximately 50 were in the group from this county, with Floyd Lower of Lisbon, county agent, in charge. Most of the people in the group were from the Lisbon district.

Activities of the day included a study of soils and crops experimental work. The program for the women in the party included lawns and floral work, nutrition, poultry, etc.

Columbiana Post
Signs New Lease

COLUMBIANA, June 11.—At a meeting of Benjamin Firestone post, America Legion, Wednesday evening, the Legion quarters in the Ledge building were re-leased for a period of five years.

Plans were approved for the enlargement of the kitchen. A resolution was passed thanking ministers and others who assisted with the annual memorial services. A large local delegation including the American Legion band, will attend the George Washington celebration to be held in Warren, June 14 to 16.

Evades Queries

Police had questioned her before.
They said she was the only one of the servants at the Morrow home in Englewood and at the home of the Charles A. Lindberghs near Hopewell, N. J.—where the kidnapping occurred and near where the child's body was buried—who had failed to account satisfactorily for her whereabouts the night of the crime.

Miss Sharpe told them she went out that night with a man and that they had driven several places, but until Thursday she had declined to identify. Then, police said, she told them the man's name was "Ernie," and she identified a picture of Brinkert as that of her companion that night.

Police returned yesterday to continue their questioning. Word was sent to the young woman that police were waiting. She started to the room where they were and collapsed. She died almost immediately. She had taken a quick-acting poison.

Word went out immediately to arrest Brinkert, 30-year-old taxicab driver of White Plains, N. Y., a man who has served a prison sentence for assault. He was arrested

O.O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, June 12.—I'm not so spry today. Every whiff of air feels like a slap. I feel myself shading off into pea green, the world stops, zooms into a twirl, and I pop out in a dew like the sweat on an ice water pitcher. Still this blank paper must be filled. This is my cross.

Speaking of crosses, I look as though I might have just been yanked down from one and, at intervals, I have a lurch to leap up and shriek: "Gangway for the super!" A second, please. I don't feel so squeamish if I droop a little to one side in my chair. That's better.

I suppose they have dragged you out to one of those after-theater repasts, too. That's what they did to me. Although I didn't eat a solitary bite. Not a smidgin. Too often have I filled to the gills on Welsh rabbit and wrestled the rest of the night with a snoring dragon in Times Square—stark naked.

I use restraint. That's what I use. And what, may I ask, are you using this season? Don't pay attention to me. Just giddiness. It will pass. By this time tomorrow, I'll be all merry and bright. You cannot keep a good man down. That is, all the way down.

Just lopping over in the side of my chair this way isn't down. See, I can stand on my feet. Even on one foot. No, I guess I better not try that. Repose is what I need. That and a guardian. Did I tell you I didn't eat or drink a thing? But, would you believe me, I don't recall a soul who was there.

Everything is a blank. Just like this paper when I sat down. But notice how I am filling it up. There's only white space now from here down. Above—there, I looked up quickly and am all dizzy again. I could fill the rest with "Now is the time for all good men, etc." But that would be tricky.

If my wife were sympathetic, she'd stand by and fan. But she lets me sit here in my weakened condition and carry on. She'd feel pretty badly if I toppled from this chair, hit my head on the waste paper basket and carried a big scar over my eye the rest of my life.

As I was saying, it was a mid-night repast, a buffet. Stuffed tomatoes, pork and beans, scalloped potatoes, imported sardines—but do you mind if I talk of something else? I see by the papers there's a place in San Salvador where you can live for 10 cents a day. That's no good. Forget I said anything. I'm only trying to keep my mind off food. The way I feel about it from now they'll have to feed me a spoonful every fourth day through a quill.

I think I told you I ate nothing at the midnight supper. I get that far and everything begins to swim. What I'd give to stretch out on the sofa, close my eyes and have Kreisler play something. Has anyone a deck of cards? I often divert my mind with solitaire. Never mind, don't hunt for them. I couldn't keep track and before I knew it, I'd be cheating.

As I told you I staid until 4 a. m. without eating a bite. Listening to stewing kung-fu songs and tall stories. Every time I'd start to go, the host would take me out in the pantry to inquire: "What I ever do to you? Throw you a swell party and what you do, run out like a dirty dog, at's whaz you do. You know whaz say? Say you're ole hermit. Poor ole Odd. No pep. Jus' a home body. Fireside pappy." Then he'd break down sobbing and I'd have to go back.

Anyway I got home at 4:30, famished. Nothing to eat since dinner and sitting around watching gluttons. So I detoured to the ice box, dreaming of a cold potato, a bowl of chilled macaroni or perhaps a left-over ham hock. (Is that thinking up a story?) And what do you suppose I found—surprise, surprise! Well, suckers, a huge plate of cold beef stew, with a jelly-like layer. You've seen a hungry hound wolf his supper after a hunt. That was the picture with a real life hero. The way I laped it up was nobody's business.

And I felt dandy this morning, too. No fuzzy tongue or anything. That is, until I sat at the typewriter. From the pantry I heard my wife say to the cook: "Martha, what became of the beef stew I mixed with the sulphur and medicated biscuits for the dogs last night? I put it here and it's gone." Awk!

Avoid Stomach Troubles

There is a group of stomach disturbances that are decidedly uncomfortable, and gastritis, meaning inflammation of the walls of the stomach is the term used to designate these conditions, which are often confused with heartburn, indigestion, hyperacidity and other gastric disturbances.

Acute gastritis is a sudden inflammation of the lining of the stomach caused by chemical or mechanical irritation. It may be produced by swallowing coarse and uncooked foods, by faulty mastication or by excessive use of alcohol. It is frequently encountered in such disorders as influenza, pneumonia, measles and scarlet fever. In these cases the irritation is produced by the toxins or poisons found in these diseases.

As a rule, acute gastritis readily responds to treatment, but unfortunately chronic gastritis is of a more serious nature and requires careful and prolonged treatment. The chronic form may be the result of continued wrong habits of eating, improper chewing of food, hasty eating, excessive use of condiments, fried and greasy foods, or alcohol, over a long period of time may produce chronic gastritis.

The condition may be the result of a severe heart, lung, or liver disorder, or it may be caused by an infection somewhere in the body. As in the tonsils, throat, nasal sinuses, gall bladder or appendix, from which it is believed infection is carried to the stomach by the blood stream, or it may be swallowed with the food.

In chronic gastritis inflammation of the mucous membrane or lining of the stomach causes increased secretion of mucus, which aids in protecting the inflamed membrane. If the inflammation continues there is a decrease of hydrochloric acid and pepsin in the stomach—substances essential for proper gastric digestion—and faulty intestinal digestion and many severe ailments follow.

If you suffer from digestive disturbances, consult your physician, and by complete physical examination let him determine whether you have gastritis, either acute or chronic. Special laboratory examinations of the contents of the stomach may be necessary, or an X-ray picture of the stomach and intestines.

Diet is important in treating gastritis. Foods that are rich in fat, fried or greasy should be avoided, and butter used only in small amounts. Any food known to cause digestive disturbances should be shunned. Water should be consumed at each meal, and at least six to eight glasses of water daily between meals.

Avoid excessive eating. It is best to eat frequently rather than to overeat at one meal. Food should be slowly and thoroughly chewed. Avoid peppers, spices and condiments. Follow your doctor's diet instructions.

Answers to Health Queries
"A Reader" Q.—What do you advise for high blood pressure?

A—Send self addressed stamped envelope for full particulars and repeat your question.

A. G. G. Q.—What causes an abcessed tooth?
A—A decayed tooth will cause an abcess.

Miss Margaret R. Q.—What causes a pain in the lower right side?
A—This may be due to formation of gas, indigestion or constipation. It would be wise to have an examination by your doctor.

George A. Q.—What causes itching of the body and what do you advise?
A—This may be due to constipation or some intestinal disturbance. Try to locate the cause and remove if possible. Send self-addressed stamped envelope for full particulars and repeat your question.

Mrs. L. E. S. Q.—What causes my heart to beat fast especially when I retire at night?
A—This may be due to nervousness. It would be wise to have your heart examined and follow your doctor's advice.

Sunday's horoscope shows signs of great activity and enterprise, with matters stirring under general high pressure and initiative. The faculties and energies will be found under unusual stimulus to hard work, constructive and ambitious projects. These getting best results with combines or secret bodies.

Those whose birthday it is are on the brink of an unusually active, progressive and constructive year, with the energies and talents under fine impetus to gain large results. Especially contacts with results, secret bodies or diplomatic contacts should flourish and possibly lead to prominent places in the public eye. A child born on this day should be deeply studious and practical as well as energetic, winning splendid success and high position.

Monday, June 13

Monday's astrological forecast holds augury of very pleasant and welcome change which may have strong reactions on the personal and mental life. There is prospect of surprising developments which may affect the environment as well as the domestic, social as well as business associations.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of welcome change, with new and pleasant relations in business as well as private contacts. All trends to an unforeseen and happily abrupt and profitable reconstruction of the lagging affairs, with travel or new environment and friends, but be cautious with these, as there may be intriguing or surprising denouements. A child born on this day should be talented, skillful, ingenious and original, as well as personally charming and gifted. He should succeed in inventions, science or cultural lines.

Bobwhite Proves Interesting Bird
Found First In East, But Subsequently Migrated to Other Sections
—BY WILLIAM C. BAKER—

I have recently received from the Smithsonian Institution a book on the game birds of North America which devotes about thirty pages to the bobwhite. Much of these pages is devoted to a summary of a recent volume on the bobwhite, for bobwhite has, during the last few years, been subjected to the most intensive investigation ever given any bird. There are many interesting things to learn about quail, and many fallacies to be dispelled, particularly among sportsmen.

Found In East

Quail were originally found only along the eastern seaboard, but with migration westward, they followed the plow until now, with importations, they cover much of the United States east of the Rockies. They are not found in the heavy woods, nor very often on the open prairie, for they are essentially a bird of the briar tangles at the edge of woods, whence they come into our fields to feed.

There is no bird which is so wholly beneficial in its food habits as bobwhite. It eats a little waste grain, fallen from the ears at harvest, and will often eat grain with the barnyard fowls, but in the summer its food is almost wholly of destructive insects, and in winter, of weed seeds. It is especially useful in the control of the Colorado potato fields near its cover.

Nests In Briar Tangles

Bob white nests are most often found in the briar tangles, but they are also found commonly in hay fields, grain fields, and in fields given up by man and allowed to revert to nature. They usually lay from eight to twenty eggs, although nests have been found to contain as many as forty eggs deposited in layers undoubtedly the product of two hens. This prodigality is evidence of great mortality. Of 600 nests studied under conditions calculated to prevent any disturbance of the nests, thirty-six per cent were at least partially successful, while sixty-four per cent were entirely unsuccessful. Stray cats are the greatest enemy of bobwhite, and dogs allowed to hunt by themselves also take toll of the birds and eggs. Crows also destroy many eggs and have even been seen to kill adult birds in winter. Just before the covies broke up, this spring, I saw a ring-necked pheasant alight deliberately in a covey much to the consternation of the birds and I am sure that she would have killed at least one of the birds had she not perceived me. I have heard other bird students describe similar conditions.

Weather Is Factor, Too

Weather conditions also have much to do with the numbers of bob-white. During the last three years we have been able to observe the complete ebb and flow of bob-white life. The heat and drought of two summers ago, together with the numerous grass fires, prevented many quail from nesting, and of the eggs that were laid, many were added by the heat and many were burned. The winter and spring of 1930 and 1931 saw a very great decimation of their numbers, but last year presented an ideal breeding season, and this spring one hears "bob-bob-white" many times oftener than he did a year ago.

Although quail are, strictly speaking, game birds, their value as insect destroyers and their esthetic value are so great that they ought not to be hunted.

Quail are being subjected to very intense propaganda, in Ohio, at present, and it is going to require the joint efforts of conservationists and farmers to prevent their restoration to the game list. Hunters caught to realize, too, that it is to their own interests to keep bob-white off the game list, for, since most farmers have become educated to the value of "bob-white," they would post many more of their farms against hunting than they already have.

"MURDER of the NIGHT CLUB LADY"

THE NEW THATCHER COLT DETECTIVE MYSTERY

BY ANTHONY ABBOT

Copyright, 1931, by COWLEY-FRISCH, INC., DISTRIBUTED BY KINGS FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

SYNOPSIS

Lola Carewe, "The Night Club Lady," is mysteriously murdered in her penthouse apartment at three o'clock New Year's morning. An hour later, the body of Lola's guest, Christine Quires, is found in Lola's room. Christine had been killed first and her body hidden. Dr. Hugh Baldwin attributes both deaths due to heart failure. Guy Everett, Christine's New Year's Eve escort, claims he brought her home at 12:15 and then went riding, alone, on the Motor Parkway. Mrs. Carewe, Lola's mother, denies seeing Christine return. Police Commissioner Thatcher Colt discounts District Attorney Dougherty's theory that Lola was killed by a jewel thief ring she headed and that Christine met the same fate for knowing too much. Vincent Rowland, Lola's lawyer, discloses that Everett loved Lola and was jealous of Dr. Baldwin. The police are on the trail of Christine's brother, Edward, who left his Rochester home for New York City after Christine was New Year's Eve. Christine was to have inherited wealth shortly. Dr. Multooler, the medical examiner, contradicted Dr. Baldwin's statement that heart failure caused the deaths. A strap picked up in Lola's room presents mute evidence of having caused the bruise on Christine's neck—after death. Everett confesses he lied about riding on the Motor Parkway. He states Christine told him she had discovered a plot to murder Lola and feared for her own life because of her knowledge, adding that Dr. Baldwin was involved. The picture of the young man found in Lola's room is identified by the Paris Prefect of Police as that of Basil Boucher, a young bank clerk, who met a dancer named Lola in Paris, robbed a bank to buy her a ruby, and then disappeared. Basil's parents sold medical laboratory specimens. The scientist employed by Colt to analyze the dust gathered from Lola's room, telephones that he knows what killed Lola and Christine.

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT

The laboratory of Professor Luckner, as I recalled while Neil McMahon was driving us uptown toward Morningside Heights, was a plain room in the rear of a private apartment. Some years before, the old scientist had retired, but at Colt's persuasion had equipped himself with a private workshop which he devoted solely to research work requested by the police department. On many occasions he had been of substantial assistance to Thatcher Colt. In vain the chief tried to get an appropriation to make Luckner's work a part of the official equipment of the department. But this was never done; Colt footed all the bills out of his own pocket.

At the door of the apartment we were met by the professor, a mild little man with a red beard turning gray, reminding one of Bernard Shaw. This morning the scientist's eyes were twinkling behind double-lensed nose spectacles and his wild, scraggy gray hair was waving excitedly on the top of his long, thin head.

"Come right in," the savant invited, shaking hands effusively and laughing nervously. "Once more you skeptics shall see what poor, humble science can do."

He led us to a plain room. In the center was a kitchen table, over which had been laid a covering of glistening white cardboard. Here the dust and fragments from the bags of the vacuum cleaners had been emptied. The debris had been spread on the cardboard and the whole dumped mass leveled to a fine thin layer, spread like varnish. Trained on this exhibit was a beam of light from portable nickel-plated lamp like the "baby spot" of the theaters—with the additional feature of a belt of mirrors concentrated around the light. Under this light, Professor Luckner had been examining the mess for hours, peering at it through an ultra microscope.

"Please show us what you have found, professor," pleaded Colt, in his tone a rising note of eagerness.

Without replying, Professor Luckner picked up a pair of dainty tweezers. Reaching into a wooden box, which he produced from the pocket of his white linen robe, he picked something between the steel fingers of his gleaming little instrument. With the air of a conjurer performing a trick he held up the tweezers exposing his treasure.

"I found this in the dust," he proclaimed with an air of pride.

We drew nearer and peered at the two fuzzy, microscopic pieces held in the nippers. What could they be? Professor Luckner deposited his precious findings on a clear piece of the cardboard, and placed over it a magnifying glass.

"See for yourself," he invited.

Quickly the Commissioner bent over, turned the screw of the glass, and squinted. With intense interest he studied the almost invisible treasure which the scientist had rescued from a sea of dusty sweepings.

"They look like the thin attenuated bristles of some insect?" declared Thatcher Colt finally.

"Exactly, Herr Commissioner," he boomed. "You should have been a scientist yourself!"

"But bristles of what insect?" urged Colt.

Again without replying—there is no one who loves the romance and drama of a situation more than a cold-blooded, precise scientist, especially a German one—Professor

Luckner opened a drawer in the kitchen table upon which he had performed his mysterious labors. From the drawer, he drew out a long tube which physicians call a specimen jar. It is the kind of glass house in which an appendix often finds a permanent home. This jar was nearly filled with yellow alcohol. It was labeled, and as Colt received the bottle from the professor's long, pale hand, he pronounced the legend of the label as if it were an incantation:

"Cebtrurus Edicanda"

With a startled air, Colt glanced from the embossed thing in the specimen jar to the flushed and proud face of Professor Luckner.

"What is this?" asked the Commissioner.

"A scorpion!"

"A scorpion!" repeated Colt in astonishment. "A scorpion, did you say?"

"The most deadly known to man!"

"Lola Carewe and Christine Quires died from the bites of a scorpion?"

"There is no doubt of it! I have already talked on the telephone with your doctor Multooler."

My ears were ringing with astonishment. How could such a thing have been done? I remembered the box stuffed with cotton found in the shoe. But who could plot and manage such an unthinkable method of murder? It seemed mad—preposterous—and madder still when I remembered that once Lola Carewe had danced a waltz of her own invention that was called "The Scorpion!"

"Tell me about this," urged Thatcher Colt. "I had never understood that the bite of a scorpion was necessarily fatal."

The old scientist wagged his head to one side and his eyes gleamed with the pride of superior knowledge.

"But this is not the ordinary insect," he explained with a bland air. "It caused me a great deal of trouble before I could identify it. Seven Columbia professors have been here this morning to help me out. Fortunately, one of them had this perfect specimen—and then I knew I was right!"

Over Colt's shoulder I looked at the dead creature in the bottle. It was light-colored, long-tailed, and was about two inches long, with two enormous feelers at the head, flat at their ends.

"There is an even finer specimen in the Bureau of Entomology, in Washington, so I am informed," continued Professor Luckner. "I have a photograph."

"But where are these creatures found?" interrupted Colt.

"Particularly in Durango, Mexico," Professor Luckner replied. "They cause about forty deaths a year in that region."

Colt glanced at me quickly, and at once I began making notes on the professor's remarks.

"What are the symptoms when one is bitten, professor?"

"A stinging, burning sensation like a hot needle being plunged into the flesh. It is a peculiar sensation and is always recognized, even by those who do not see the insect. Within a few minutes the bitten places become red followed by a severe pain in the part affected. In a little while—in some cases it is three or four minutes, often a second or so—that part becomes numb. The tongue becomes thick and it is impossible to pronounce words clearly."

Colt glanced at me. Our thoughts must have been the same. Again we were living through those moments of agony when he had found Lola Carewe in anguish on the floor.

"Go on," urged Colt in a low voice.

"For quite a while there is a coma. Then spasms or convulsions of the entire body begin. They are more marked in the legs and back. They are accompanied by a straining and grunting sound. There is more or less paralysis of the respiration. Croup-like sounds come from the throat. These convulsions come in waves and increase in severity. There is a livid pallor to the face. Just before death the pulse is very rapid, the eyes bloodshot—and often the patient spits up blood."

Colt's sombre eyes lingered on the specimen of the dead scorpion in the bottle.

"It all tallies," he remarked. "There is no doubt, as you say, that these two women died from the bite of this insect. But where is the rest of its body? You found only these two legs."

"No more, Herr Commissioner."

"And why is it that the scorpion's living or dead, were not found?" added Colt, peering under contracted brows at Professor Luckner.

The old savant grinned.

"They die when they bite human beings," he explained.

"Then the murderer must have recovered the dead scorpion?"

Professor Luckner laughed aloud. "All except those two little legs," he boasted, with undignified glee.

"And where did it bite Lola and Christine—when there were no wounds on the body?"

"It is not for me to answer that."

"Not for you—but for me," said Colt in solemn accents. "There was no mark on her body, except—"

"I think I could give you a hint!" cried the old scientist surprisingly. "Look here what I have also done—all for the honor and the glory of your unappreciative police department!"

On another table at the farther end of the room lay the clothes in which Lola Carewe and Christine Quires had been clad when we found them. From out of the bundle one piece lay exposed—the bathrobe about which Thatcher Colt had been so curious. Lola's garment that had been buttoned the wrong way.

"There is what you call a clue, Herr Commissioner," said Professor Luckner. "I cut away the sleeves of all the garments and sheared them open. Here, in this one, just below the elbow, I found something."

Lindy Present

Colonel Lindbergh himself who, with his wife—the former Anne Morrow—has been living at the Englewood home of his mother-in-law, was present when the girl dropped from the effects of the poison. He was with police a few moments later when they ransacked her room for some clue to the cause of her self-murder.

Police said she had identified Brinkert's picture the day before. The police alarm for his arrest, however, was not sent out until after her suicide.

Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the New Jersey state police, said last night the girl had

WHITE REGAINS POPULARITY IN JUNE WEDDINGS

Colored Bridal Gowns To Go Into Discard; Lilac Latest Vogue

Wedding wear will ring in white this spring. June brides this season are not going in for fantastic red, blue or black bridal gowns that the fashionable dressmakers have been trying to put over for the past few years.

Lilac and peach-white are the latest vogue with the modern bride and a wise choice they are, for both these delicate tones give a suggestion of richness and warmth which is often lacking in the pure white tones.

Peach-white is particularly pretty for the brunette and is the alternative to the deep parchment while the fairer sister will look best in the blue-white or lilac shade.

Patou For Simplicity
Patou makes the wedding gown modest and simple of classical white satin, with high bodice and long leg o'mutton sleeves. There is a long, rounded train and the veil of crepe chiffon is draped over to the right side and held by a white camella.

Veils, by the way, offer about the only novelty for this season's bride, coming in precious lace handed down by mother or grandmother and fashioned into most modern bridal head covering. Lanvin is making tiny circular veils that just cover the head and most of the shoulders.

Another designer favors the very long veil with a train but set far back on the hair. The veil is very popular. Tulle of feather-fastened by the coronet of buds over the face until after the ceremony and then thrown back.

Veils Are Chic
It is very chic now for the bridesmaids to wear little veils just like that of the bride and their frocks are generally white as well.

White angel-skin cut on classical lines makes the gown for another June bride. The veil will be about the only thing that will distinguish her from the eight maids who will wear gowns exactly like hers.

"Artist's" Nemesis

Answering an "ad" for artists' models in Chicago, Dorothy Duval and Marie Vaughan (both above) were embarrassed to discover that their prospective employer was an artist only in the art of the late Don Juan. Arrested on the complaint of the girls, Bart Williams, the "artist," admitted his "ad" was a ruse to obtain girl friends.

These Potential First Ladies Well Qualified for Position

Wives of Three Leading Democratic Candidates and Daughter of a Fourth Ideally Suited for Job of White House Hostess.

Although a lot has been spoken and written about the capabilities of Presidential candidates in the coming campaign, very little has been said of the woman who may share the success of any one of them. Of course, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of New York's Governor, who is the leading Democratic candidate, needs no introduction to Americans. Born a Roosevelt, she kept the illustrious name intact by marrying one. Mrs. Roosevelt is no stranger to politics and diplomatic usage, so in the event of her husband's victory in the coming campaign she would fit into the role of White House hostess like a hand into a glove. Mrs. John Nance Garner, wife of the Speaker of the House, would also make an ideal "first lady." Since her marriage in 1895, she has been a "Texas Jack's" secretary and advisor. Their ideal partnership constitutes as romantic a story as any in the pages of fiction. Then there is Mrs. Newton D. Baker, who is equipped for the job of presiding at the White House by reason of her association with diplomatic society during her husband's tenure of office as Secretary of War in the late President Wilson's cabinet. One unusual possibility deserves mention. In the event of Governor George White of Ohio being nominated and elected, he will bring the youngest "first lady" in history to the White House—his 24-year-old daughter, Mary, who is now his official hostess in the gubernatorial mansion of Ohio.

THE HOME KITCHEN

By Jeanette Young Norton

Perfect Pineapple From Only One Place
For perfect pineapple choose the "Smooth Cayenne" which comes from Hawaii. Nowhere else in the world does this exotic fruit grow to such toothsome perfection. There is something about the climate and soil of these picturesque islands which produces a peculiarly luxurious and finely flavored variety of fruit, and scientific care and much money have been expended upon its cultivation.

Canned Right There!
The pineapple is canned on the spot—the canning takes less than half an hour—and arrives in your kitchen with its delicate elusive flavor unimpaired. Just as it comes from the tins it is delightful adjunct to the meal, and here are two very appealing days of using it with other food.

Baked Pineapple and Rhubarb
Cut rhubarb, unpeeled, in small pieces to the amount of six cups. Put in a baking dish with one cup sugar, ten cloves, one-eighth teaspoon cinnamon and one cup pineapple syrup. Cover and bake until tender, about 30 minutes in a 375 degree oven. Serve cold with some simple cake such as sponge cake.

Ham Hawaiian Style
Lay slices of cold boiled ham over bottom of shallow baking dish. One slice for each person to be served. On each slice put a piece of canned Hawaiian pineapple. In the center of each slice of pineapple place one tablespoon brown sugar. Place under broiler and brown well. This makes a delicious dish for luncheon or Sunday supper.

Corned Beef—With Variations
No wonder corned beef is among the most popular of American dishes. It's flavorful, deliciously tender when properly cooked, and it has its convenience side, too. For if meat just has to be served, almost daily to certain members of the family, then corned beef will enable the housekeeper to serve their taste, and yet not have to cook meat every day. A good section of corned beef can be purchased so that it will be sufficient for several meals. (In fact, it hardly pays to buy a smallish cut because in any case it's a long cooking process.)

Place the corned beef in a deep saucepan, cover with cold water and cook over a moderate flame until it comes to a boil. Skim, then pour off all this water. Add fresh cold water, let come to a boil slowly, then simmer until tender, allowing 30 minutes per pound.

New England Dinner
New England Boiled Dinner is prepared by adding vegetables to meat and liquid about 45 minutes before it will be finished. All sorts of fresh vegetables are used—quartered new cabbage, turnips, potatoes, carrots, parsnips, onions. Not beets—they add too much color.

Wed Abroad
Cupid has it all over the League of Nations when it comes to making international alliances. Here is the former Miss Mary Howell, prominent in New York social circles, and Robert Boccia following their wedding in the chapel of the Boccia home in Genoa, Italy.

Addresses Grange
Dr. H. C. Brillhart, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, was the speaker at the Memorial services at Mt. Nebo Grange hall, north of Lisbon, Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Degnan and son Matthew, Jr. of Youngstown were visitors at the Holland Calvin home, Tuesday.

Today's Pattern

Pattern 2284

We suggest the ever smart black and white sheer crepe for this model, adorned with a bit of fine lace and a pert black satin ribbon bow. Every detail tends to slenderize the figure — the slim vestee, the snug hips with slight gathering of bodice above, the front skirt panel adding height and the well shaped side parts. The sleeves are most attractive.

Pattern 2284 is obtainable only in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48. Size 36 requires 3 1/2 yards of 39 inch fabric, 1/2 yard of 18-inch lace.

Our beautiful 32-page Fashion Catalog offers you an opportunity to choose delightful morning, afternoon and evening models suitable for wear right now and all through the summer. Featuring styles chosen by Ann Adams this catalog is an accurate guide to summer chic. Lovely lingerie and pajama patterns and adorable kidie models are included in this fascinating book.

Jesus Rejects Satan Chooses to Serve God

In a recent article of this series, we reviewed, briefly, that incident when Jesus, at the end of forty days fasting, so triumphantly chose to serve God, in the face of great temptation. Meantime interested readers have suggested that more specific emphasis, should be given to how Jesus dealt with Satan, in that instance.

Perhaps our neglect in that case, is due to the fact, the writer was interested in what Jesus decided to do, rather than something He did not choose to do—Meantime, we are pleased to note the interest on the part of the readers. Hence, we refer back to that occasion for further comment.

After all, it is timely, and fitting, that we do this. During these strenuous days when men and women are striving for existence, and heretofore prosperous concerns are suffering losses, the temptation to forsake God, for temporal gain and profit, appears alluring. In such a crisis, we should think of Jesus; hungry, and not knowing where to lay his head—Then see Him as the wealth of the land is offered, and think of Him as He said; "Get thee behind me Satan."

As the Artist has pictured Jesus and Satan as physical beings, let us not lose any of the value of this lesson as we question whether Satan appeared in physical form. The picture is intended only to illustrate how Jesus, could, and did, reject all the mental suggestions that came to Him. Let us realize the urge to forsake God, came to Him, in exactly the same manner that it comes to us. The question is: Shall we follow His example? Or shall we accept the things near at hand, and lose sight of "treasures laid up where thieves cannot break through and steal"?

Services in Our Churches this Week

HOLY TRINITY ENGLISH LUTHERAN

East State st., at Woodland ave.
Rev. George D. Keister, pastor.
Third Sunday after Trinity.
Sunday school 9:45 (44:18-34).
Paul Wilms, Supt.

The brotherhood of man should follow the truth of the Fatherhood and Saviorhood of God. What God it should be reflected in the life and action of man. Brotherhood has its start in the family. There persons of the same flesh and blood can take part in the mutual respect and regard for each other that results from love. True brotherhood cannot long be confined only to the home. It steps beyond the ties of family. It reaches to the far corners of the earth. It does not stop at barriers of race, color or creed or condition. It says, "We are all of one blood." We have one common Father in Heaven. When true brotherhood of man is attained, world problems will fade away as clouds before the sun. No one can lead the way to this condition like our Elder Brother, Jesus Christ.

Morning worship, 11, sermon "The Ninety and Nine."
The Gospel lesson for this Sunday is made up of the parables of Jesus about the lost sheep and lost coin. Jesus was deeply concerned about lost humanity. He came to seek and save the lost. He came unto the lost sheep of the house of Israel. This emphasis must carry with it the thought that the Christ is not concerned about the group that is numbered among the saved. The shepherd was not neglecting the ninety-nine. Foolish would he have been to have placed all his attention and interest upon the one lost sheep and placed in jeopardy the remainder. He did not do that. Dangerous is it to emphasize the lost so much, that being lost is somewhat glorified. The ninety-nine were continually blessed. They had safety and security unbroken. They never caused the shepherd deep anxiety and worry. The attitude and spirit of the ninety-nine are pleasing to the Lord.

Luther league 6:30. The Sunday evening topic is, "Getting the Most Out of Leisure Time." Harriet Izenour is the leader.

Luther league business meeting, Monday evening.

Choir association meets Tuesday evening.

The Children's day program previously announced for June 12, will be held one week later, June 19. The Lydia Bible class will hold an apron social at the church social room, Friday evening.

CHRISTIAN

North Ellsworth ave. and East Second st., C. F. Evans, minister; J. William Filson, director of music; Mrs. Ruth Berry, organist.

Next Sunday is Children's day. The church's ministry to children is one of the outstanding achievements of the modern age. Once church was regarded as an adult institution. The Sunday school movement began in response to a feeling of responsibility to provide religious training for children. Then it was enlarged to include adult instruction. Now the Sunday school constitutes a major activity in any church. On Children's day we honor our children. The special program is given by them. The offering which is always taken is the missionary offering of the Sunday school, a gift of children and adults for God's children throughout the world. It is hoped that this day shall be a great event in our church.

9:30 a. m., Church school, Harry M. Vincent, Supt. The classes will assemble to make up their records. 10:00 a. m., Children's day program in the church auditorium, followed by communion service.

7:45 p. m., Union service at Presbyterian church. Rev. A. C. Westphal, minister of the Baptist church, will preach. This is a fine fellowship and our people are urged to participate in it.

Tuesday, 7:30 p. m. Loyal Women's class monthly business meeting.

Wednesday, 7:45 p. m., midweek service.

Thursday, 8 p. m., Ye Olde Tyme Concerte, given by the Damascus Methodist church choir, under the auspices of our Sunday school, to secure funds to send our young people to conference.

Friday, 7:30 p. m., choir practice.

FIRST FRIENDS

E. Pershing near S. Broadway, C. F. Bailey, pastor.

The Bible school and the morning service for worship will be combined in one service at which time the children's day program will be given. The respective classes will assemble in the auditorium at 9:45.

Christian Endeavor, 6:30. Topic: "Getting the Most Out of Our Leisure Time." John 9:4.

Miss Mary Walker will have charge of the Juniors in the basement at the same hour.

Prayer service, 7:30.

Saturday evening prayer meeting, 7:30.

Prayer meeting, 7:30, Wednesday evening. There being 75 in attendance last Wednesday evening at the regular midweek service is sufficient proof that many realize the need as well as the benefit of prayer in the midst of the week's toil and burdens. Mrs. Ernest Ryser will be the leader this week.

CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE

608 East Second St. Rev. C. L. Gardner, pastor.

Sunday school, 9:45. Harry Lambert, Supt.

N. Y. P. S. prayer meeting, 6:15.

N. Y. P. S. meeting at 6:30, leader, Mrs. C. L. Gardner.

Evangelistic service at 7:30.

Thursday evening, prayer meeting at 7:30.

Come and worship with us.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL

South Broadway. Rev. Sidney A. Mayer, minister. A cordial welcome is extended to all.

Church school, Sunday morning at 9:45 a. m. Nell Grisez, superintendent; Stanley Teachout, director of music.

Children's day program and sacrament of baptism at 10:30 a. m.

The program will be given by members of the beginners and primary departments, Mrs. Charles Corneill, superintendent. The Children's day offering will go to the student loan fund to assist in making possible a college education for our young people.

The Epworth league will unite with the Christian Endeavor society of the Presbyterian church in a union young peoples service at 6:30.

Union evening worship at 7:45 in the Presbyterian church. Rev. A. C. Westphal of the Baptist church will preach.

The Bethlehem class will meet on Thursday at 2 p. m. with Mrs. Elizabeth Kirkbride, 1055 North Ellsworth ave. This will be the annual June rally of the class. All members are invited.

The annual congregational meeting and fourth quarterly conference of the church will be held on Friday night, beginning with a covered supper at 6:30. There will be a special program following the supper. Dr. C. D. Marston, our district superintendent, will be present and speak. All organizations will make reports for the year closed.

A. M. E. ZION

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY

217 North Lincoln ave. Morning service at 11 o'clock, subject, "God the Preserver of Man."

Golden Text: Psalms 36:6: Thy righteousness is like the great mountains; thy judgments are a great deep; O Lord, thou preservest man and beast.

Sunday school for pupils up to the age of 20 years at 9:45 a. m.

Wednesday evening testimony meeting at 8 o'clock.

All are cordially invited to attend these services.

"God the Preserver of Man," is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, June 12.

Also broadcast over WJAY Sunday at 11 a. m.

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "He that dwelleth in the secret place of the most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty. . . . He shall cover thee with his feathers, and under his wings shalt thou trust; his truth shall be thy shield and buckler" (Psalms 91:1-4).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:

"The history of Christianity furnishes sublime proofs of the supporting influence and protecting power bestowed on man by his heavenly Father, omnipotent Mind, who gives man faith and understanding whereby to defend himself, not only from temptation, but from bodily suffering."

CHURCH OF GOD

West State st. Sunday school 10 a. m. Sermon 11 a. m. Subject, "A Chain of Testimonies Concerning Jesus Christ." Speaker, G. A. Tabor.

FISTS FLY AS DODGERS TRIM CUBS; A'S AGAIN DEFEAT TRIBE

THE DAY IN SPORTS

GOLF MADE EASY
TROJANS LEAD NATION

AMERICANS wouldn't have much luck if they tried to hide their joy over the golfing lessons their lads give the British cousins when opportunities arise. Nine successive years have Americans won the British open golf championship—and they are finding it easier to do every time.

Gene Sarazen, a sprightly little man, ran away with it this year, and took with him a record unapproached in the 40 years that golfers have been putting their best into the British open. Over a difficult course, he broke 290 for 72 holes. Bobby Jones did it on an easier course in 1927, but Sarazen, in comparison, the best of the British seem to play for the fun of trying.

Then, there was MacDonald Smith, another American, who came in with 288 to take second place. He was one of a pair of great golfers—perhaps, the most impressive representation of the United States ever had. Bobby Jones was one great golfer; Sarazen and Smith are two great golfers.

American will be pardoned, in enthusiasm over their spectacular achievements, for claiming that when better golfers are turned out they will be stamped. "Made in U. S. A."

THE TROJANS of the University of Southern California form what many regard as the nation's most powerful and accomplished track and field team.

Dean B. Cromwell coaches the Trojan track team which has just won its fourth consecutive California intercollegiate championship.

For those who like statistics, the figures below should reveal some of the strength of the greatest team ever developed in the west.

For the past two years the Trojan team has won the I. C. A. A. A. and National intercollegiate championships with new high record scores; have been undefeated for three years in dual, triangle or west coast intercollegiate meets; during the last California intercollegiate meet scored more points than the combined team scores of Stanford, California and U. C. L. A.

The Trojans will not come east for the I. C. A. A. A. meet this year, since the championships will be held at Berkeley, California.

Southern California has strength in every event except the distance runs.

The following facts about the Trojan team are reasons why Cromwell's boys are favored to win their third straight I. C. A. A. A. title:

100-Yard Dash—Wyckoff, 9.4 seconds and two other 9.8 second splits.

220-Yard Dash—Wyckoff, 20.8 seconds and a 21.2 seconds assistant.

440-Yard Run—Woessner, 47.4 seconds.

880-Yard Run—A 1:55 man.

1 Mile Run—A 4:21 performer.

High Hurdles—Three men who consistently beat 42 seconds.

Low Hurdles—Three runners who usually shade 23.6 seconds.

Pole Vault—Bill Garber, 14 ft. and a 13 ft. 6 in. vault.

High Jump—Four stars who jump from 6 ft. 4 in. to 6 ft. 6 in.

Broad Jump—Dick Barber, 25 ft. 4 in. and two 24 ft. jumpers.

Shot Put—Bob Hall, 49 ft. 9 1/2 in.

Discus—Bob Hall, 157 ft. 7 3/4 in.

Javelin—Two 195 foot performers.

Frank Wyckoff, Barber, Garber and Hall were I. C. A. A. A. champions last year. Each of the quartet is almost certain of an Olympic berth, as are five other Trojans.

BECAUSE WOMEN can never be in the same physical class as men, no first class woman track athlete can ever beat a first class man without a handicap, according to Lord Burleigh, famous athlete, boyish-looking captain of Britain's Olympic team, and member of parliament.

Burleigh expressed the opinion that over-training was more common than under-training; he advised early hours for retiring, plenty of sleep and "any food which the stomach can deal with."

"It is really impossible to draw any comparison between men and women when it comes to athletics," he said, "because women can never be in the same physical class as men."

He declined to express any personal opinion as to whether the participation of women in Olympic games and major competitions was wise or not; "that is far too controversial. All I can do is to quote facts which are common knowledge, to wit, comparatively speaking women are physically smaller than men."

"No first class woman athlete can ever beat a first class man without a handicap of some sort."

ASKED WHETHER he thought different kinds of national foods influenced the athletic performances of various nationalities he replied in the negative.

"Italy, where they eat spaghetti, has produced great athletes as Britain has done on roast beef and boiled cabbage. There seem

Buckeyes Look Strong; Quaker Stars Vie for Laurels at Cleveland

Ohio State, the last neighborhood school to win the National Collegiate Athletic Association track championship before Southern California dominated the field, was a long favorite to retain it today at Stags field, Chicago.

The Buckeyes, with George Simpson and Dick Rockaway carrying the burden, won the title in 1929. Southern California's Trojans took it in 1930 and 1931, but did not come back this year to defend it.

Salem athletes are included in a great field of track and field talent clashing in the second annual A. A. U. championships at Lakewood field, Cleveland, this afternoon.

Depend On Keller, Bennett

Ohio State's hopes rested in another sprinter and hurdler combination—Don Bennett and Jack Keller, along with a qualifier each in the javelin and quarter-mile, plus John Wonsowicz in the pole vault and John Black, who also qualified in the high hurdles.

Bennett was given an even chance of beating Ralph Metcalfe, the Negro flyer from Marquette, in the century, but the latter appeared to be a standard in the 220 yard dash. Keller also faced a trying afternoon with George Saling of Iowa, as the troublemaker.

Keller won his heat in the lows yesterday, but finished an easy second to Charles Scheffey of Minnesota in the highs.

Johnson Beats Bennett

Bennett won his heat in the furlong, but was beaten by another Negro, Jim Johnson of Illinois State normal in the 100-yard dash.

Two of the "ineligible" group (not eligible for the Olympic finals at Palo Alto, Cal., next month) won trials in impressive style.

Dwight Purvis, a freshman at Purdue, fired the javelin 201 feet, 4 1/2 inches, to lead the qualifiers, and E. Gray, of Abilene Christian, Texas, raced his heat in the half mile in 1:53.2 to clip three-tenths of a second from the meet record.

The mark will not stand, however.

200 In Cleveland Meet

More than 200 athletes, among them William Robusch, Lowell Allen, Keith Roessler, Ed Beck, Harold Horstman and Fred Cope, all of Salem, were to compete in the A. A. U. meet at Cleveland, all striving for district championships and the right to qualify for membership on U. S. Olympic squads.

Clashing in the dash will be Norm Lambacher, former Ohio Wesleyan star, who recently tied the Olympic record of 10.4 seconds; Jesse Owens, East Tech's irrepressible junior who won the state 100-yard scholastic title in 9.9 seconds; Frank White, one of the best sprinters developed at Lakewood High; Carl Saxe, Colgate's deatlon ace; Creed Ward, Western Reserve star, undefeated this year; Lyle Filkins of Penn State; Ed Gough, Notre Dame, and several lesser lights. Jesse Fezokus of Ohio State, because he is competing in the national college meet today, will not defend his district A. A. U. title.

Cope In Race

The 1,500-meter run—a distance corresponding to the mile—brings together Harmon West of Michigan, who finished second to Henry Brooks of Indiana in the Big Ten meet two weeks ago; Sharon McCullin, Akron Garfield High track captain who broke the state scholastic mile record this year and won the national scholastic half-mile title; Thomas Sexton, Willard High captain; Frederick Cope, ex-Mount Union star; John Keeley of Western Reserve; Jack Service and Bill Ashe, ex-Oberlinites, and many others.

Among other luminaries who will compete today are Dick Womer and Harv Smith, two Lakewood High immortals; Loyell Allen, the Mount Union pole-vaulter; Charles Stone, former Ohio Wesleyan weight star; London Gant, national scholastic javelin champion of Sandusky High; Florence Eggleston and Katherine Benda, two local female stars; Earl Wrobel of East Tech and Bruce of Dover, shot putters; Cy Woolcock of Akron University, dashman.

James A. Lee, manager of the meet, expects one of the largest crowds ever to see a track carnival here.

Good Hurdle Field

The 110-meter high hurdles will not be without its stiff competition, either, for among those present will be Charley Mears of Ohio Wesleyan; Chuck Galsie, Oberlin's Big Six ruler; Al Petersilge, former

to be fine athletes in all countries although their diets are different. I think the question of diet is up to the individual. Some athletes can stand food which others would find indigestible. The same applies to smoking. I myself gave it up for the 1928 Olympics. Not that I have any definite proof that smoking is harmful, but I merely came to the conclusion that it certainly could be of no value, so I gave it up and have not smoked since."

"Plenty of sleep" is among the things recommended by Burleigh as requisite to good training conditions. "I like to get eight hours when I can, but politics is not conducive to sleep." But even sleeping is "all up to the individual," he explained—some can do with less and some need more.

Preparing to Defend Title

MILLER, E. MAY STAR AS TOBIES TROUNCE MULLINS OUTFIT, 4-1

With Eddie Miller pitching great ball and Earl May clouting two of Sam Watkins' underhand offerings for home runs, the United City Cubes won their fifth consecutive softball league victory Friday evening, handing the Mullins Eveningmen's club a 4-1 setback.

600 Watch Game

The game was played at Centennial park before the season's largest audience. Unofficial estimates figured spectators to number more than 600, both bleachers being filled while throws jammed the sidelines or watched the game from automobiles.

While May poled out his two circuit clouts, one of them among the longest hits of the season, Miller was holding the rival body-makers to three hits, two of them coming in the first frame when they tallied their only marker.

May's first homer came in the initial frame, his next one coming in the fifth when he scored Johnnie Fisher and Miller ahead of him. The homer was clouted when May surprised Watkins, clouting at easy ball that the Mullins pitcher heaved waist high over the plate, with men on first and third.

C. Scullion Hurt

Cecil Scullion, Mullins first-sacker, was injured in the fourth inning in a collision with Tony Borendowsky, while playing plays by Arthur Borton and Fisher featured the game.

Greenline Ties won an 18-10 verdict over the Veterans of Foreign Wars in a wild second game.

Scholastics Annex Columbiana Title

Columbiana, June 11.—The Columbiana High school team of the local softball league has won the championship for the first half of the season finishing the undefeated Kenmar Furniture's second and Lutheran's fourth.

It has been decided that for the second half of the season, in order to make the teams stronger and furnish greater interest, the Presbyterian and Lutheran teams will be combined, as will the Methodist and Grace Reformed teams.

Games will continue on Monday and Wednesday evenings at Esterly field.

Braves Regain Lead when Brooklyn Wins; Indians In Fifth Place

The hot fight in the National league, so hot the leadership changes hands almost daily, is beginning to wear on the players' nerves.

They're becoming quick on the trigger, and it becomes apparent the field is so closely matched a single game may decide the eventual flag winner.

Cub Dodgers Clash

But for quick intervention there might have been a free-for-all in the final game of the Chicago-Brooklyn series yesterday at Ebbets field.

The tense feeling between the clubs burst bounds, when Bill Jurges of the Cubs and Mickey Finn, the Dodgers started throwing fists after a collision at second base, members of both sides rushed in and there was a wild mix-up before order was restored between the two combatants removed from the game.

The Dodgers went on to win 4 to 3, behind Hollis Thurston's steady pitching. The defeat knocked the Cubs off the top and put the winning Boston Braves back at the head of the class.

A's Trim Indians

The Philadelphia Athletics rushed Lefty Grove in to halt a Cleveland threat in the eleventh inning as the A's won a 10-7 verdict in a slugfest at League park yesterday.

The Mackmen tallied four runs in the final frame, Grove coming in to retire the side after the Indians had three on with only one out in their half of the inning.

Simmons and Cochrane hit homers for the A's. Walberg was given credit for the win while Hudlin was the losing hurler. Cleveland dropped back to fifth place in the standings.

Ed Brandt, Boston southpaw, broke the Cardinals' winning streak Ingledue, c when he bested Bill Hallahan in a tight mound duel, 2 to 1.

The Giants made it four straight from Cincinnati, 4 to 3 as Red Lucas, pitching his twelfth complete game for the Reds, lost on errors by himself and George Graham.

The Phillies took their final with Pittsburgh, 6 to 5.

Crowder Blanks Chisox

Alvin Crowder allowed only three hits as the Washington Senators blanked Chicago, 10 to 0. Ossie Bluege's homerun with two on featured the winners' attack.

Athletics outslugged Cleveland, 10 to 7, in 11 innings as Simmons and Cochrane hit homers.

Earle Combs and Joe Sewell, Yankee veterans, connected in the eleven'h inning to defeat the Detroit Tigers, 8 to 7.

The St. Louis Browns knocked John Michaels from the hill in the seventh innig, scored four runs and noed out Boston, 4 to 3.

Champ's Reward

Beaming with the happiness that comes with the reward of victory, John De Forest, 25-year-old son of an English baron, is shown with the cup awarded to him for his triumph in the British Amateur Golf Championship. De Forest defeated Eric Fiddian at Muirfield, Scotland, in the final round by a score of 3 up and one to go.

Bill Smith Eligible

To take the place of Jim MacMurdo, graduating shot-put and discus artist, the Panther Cubs can present capable all-around field men in Emil Bonevita, another Brooklyn athlete, Charley Gough, Nanty-Gios contribution to collegiate sport, and William Smith of Salem.

Marshall Lewis, hurdler leaves a place hard to fill, but the point gathered in by Johnny Smoyer, two miler, will hardly be missed, as Pitt has two of best prospects in the east in Kenny Wagenhouse of Leetonia and Charley Kirkpatrick.

Freddy Kiger, speedy quarter-miler, will soften the blow caused by the loss of the game little Panther captain, Len Monheim. However, despite his promise as a 440 man, Kiger can not make up for the points lost in the hurdles, an event which Monheim took up tardily.

Star In Scoring

In addition to these six newcomers there are half a dozen promising plebes who will be eligible for the varsity next year. They are Oscar Schlossberg, sprinter; Ed Thompson, javelin tosser; Slim Wainio, pole vaulter and high jumper; Bob Nelson, high jumper, and Emmett McDonald, half-miler.

Smith and Wagenhauser both starred with the plebe track and field team during the past season. The Salem weight-tosser scored 20 points to rank among the team's leading point-makers while Wagenhauser followed close behind with 18.

Chiselers Win, 11-1 Over Pythian Club

Broadway "Chiselers" hit hard to hammer out an 11-1 triumph over Salem Knights of Pythias at Centennial park field Friday.

The winning lineup was C. Ehrhart mf, F. Ehrhart c, Reed ss, Hiss rs, E. May p, Dietz lb, J. Ehrhart 3b, White lf, Curley 2b, Kyner rf, D. C. Davis is manager.

PANTHER TRACK OUTLOOK BRIGHT FOR '33 SEASON

Smith of Salem, Leetonia Runner Among Pitt's Promising Stars

PITTSBURGH, June 8.—Despite the loss of five lettermen from the 1932 track and field squad there is every reason to believe that the University of Pittsburgh team in 1933 will be among the best in recent years.

The five seniors earned a total of 116 points between them, but from the 1931 freshman outfit there will come seven men of whom should be able to win enough firsts, seconds or thirds, to more than make up the above losses.

Taking the place of Woody Harris, leading scorer and ace sprint man of this year's team, Pitt can present Sol Menaker and Mort Jacobsen, Brooklyn youth, both of whom can run the 100 and 220 in close to record time.

Bill Smith Eligible

To take the place of Jim MacMurdo, graduating shot-put and discus artist, the Panther Cubs can present capable all-around field men in Emil Bonevita, another Brooklyn athlete, Charley Gough, Nanty-Gios contribution to collegiate sport, and William Smith of Salem.

Designer of Olympic Trophies

Lady of Unusual Versatility

Besides Being a Famous Sculptress, Suzanne Farnham Is an Artist, Author and Politician. Made Best Bust of President Hoover.

Coming from her native Belgium during the World War to lecture in America on her country and its people, Baroness Silvercray, daughter of Belgium's Chief Justice, fell so much in love with the United States that she stayed here, with the result that she is today one of the foremost women sculptors in the country. She is now Mrs. Suzanne Farnham with a beautiful home in New Haven, Conn., where her father-in-law is a professor at Yale University. Since her rise to fame as a sculptress, Mrs. Farnham has had many notable commissions, one of which was for a bust of President Hoover for Louvain University. Mrs. Hoover requested a copy of the bust for the White House, declaring it was the best likeness of the Chief Executive she had seen. This year, the brilliant young sculptress is more than usually busy, having been commissioned by the Olympics Committee to make statues of the contestants from Yale. Each figure is modeled from life and arrangements are being made to award the statues in bronze as Olympic trophies. Mrs. Farnham is also an author, finding time to write her autobiography, "Suzanne of Belgium." In politics, too, she knows her way about and has been made a delegate-at-large from Connecticut to the Republican national convention. On top of all this, Mrs. Farnham still finds time to work on a war memorial, which will be exhibited at the Paris Salon in the Fall.

Here and There About Town

Miss Haworth Graduates

Miss Henrietta Haworth of Portsmouth, Va., formerly of Salem, will graduate from the Woodrow Wilson High school in Portsmouth at the commencement exercises next Wednesday.

Miss Tillie Burke, returned Rev. and Mrs. C. E. Haworth, Rev. Haworth is a former pastor of the First Friends church here.

Rev. Westphal To Speak

Rev. A. C. Westphal, pastor of the Baptist church, will speak at the union service at 7:45 p. m. Sunday at the Presbyterian church. His subject will be "Ribbons of Blue."

Miss Tillie Burke, returned missionary from Africa, had previously been scheduled to speak at this service.

To Attend Flag Service

Philip Triem camp No. 43, Sons of Union Veterans, has accepted an invitation from the Salem Elks lodge to its Flag day service next Tuesday evening at the Elks home. The camp members will meet at G. A. R. hall, East State st., at 7:30 and go from there in a body to the service.

Graduates From University

Lawrence Fisher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fisher, Franklin st., has returned from Pittsburgh, where on Wednesday he was graduated from the Duquesne university.

Fisher is a graduate of Salem High school. His mother attended the commencement exercises.

Advocates Repeal

Regarded as the most prominent individual in the ranks of prohibition supporters, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., who, together with his father, subscribed $550,000 to make the adoption of prohibition legislation possible, has amazed the wet ranks by declaring himself in favor of repeal of the 18th Amendment. Rockefeller declared that the evils brought by the dry law have more than outweighed its benefits.

THEATER Attractions

A picture which may mark Greta Garbo's farewell appearance on a Salem screen will be shown as the attraction at the State Sunday and Monday when the famed Swedish star appears there in the screen's finalization of the elimination of the New York dramatic hit, "As You Desire Me."

Miss Garbo reiterates her intentions to go home and claims "As You Desire Me" to be her last appearance in talks. It is the seventeenth Garbo production featuring the beautiful Swede who came to this country, unheralded and unknown, in 1926, and since has been advanced into the spotlight as one of the most widely known of screen characters.

Miss Garbo, in "As You Desire Me" is given the able support of a new leading man, Melvyn Douglas, and other players, including Eric von Stroheim, Owen Moore, Hedda Hopper, Albert Conti and William Reicardi.

"As You Desire Me" is the first of a series of outstanding picture productions coming to this city starting tomorrow.

Today marks the final appearance here of Joe E. Brown at the State in "The Tenderfoot" while the Grand shows Tim McCoy in "The Fighting Marshal," today and Sunday.

George Brent, heralded as a real newcomer and Ruth Chatterton are starred in the State's offering, "The Rich are Always With Us," Tuesday and Wednesday. Other members of the lead cast are John Miljan, Adrienne Ames and Bette Davis while Robert Warwick, John Wray, Walter Walker and Borton Churchill are supporting players.

"Broken Wing" Coming

Lupe Velez, Melvyn Douglas, George Barbier and Leo Carrillo form the quartet of stars who are featured in the popular drama, "The Broken Wing," at the State Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Another great attraction will be the hilarious, thrilling and likeable drama, "It's Tough to be Famous," with Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., in the starring role. It comes to the State next Friday and Saturday.

Mary Brian is Fairbanks' leading lady while Walter Catlett, Oscar Apfel, David Landeau, Lillian Bond and Terrence Ray are members of the supporting cast.

Ohio Crops

ACCORDING to the Department of Agriculture, the winter wheat crop in Ohio is better than that of any other important wheat state and the present condition indicates a production of 32,000,000 bushels. The rye crop promises well, but fruit prospects are only fair, because of March freezes.

Dollar crops in the form of interest can always be depended upon by those farmers who carry savings accounts in the First National Bank.
